purpose which does not appear, unless it be the simple one that the buyers are to be paid, while there is a good rise in store later on.

The most active issue today other than gas was Washington Railway and Electric, which had a very satisfactory recorded gold sales, the price ranging from 90 to 90½. Common stock was neglected today.

Another trading stock shares were on call trades were made in a quotation list of National Metropolitan at 215 and one bid was made at 215½. The bid was 150. For the others the old bid and asked prices were renewed.

Other trading shares were Mergenthaler sold at 215, and the reporter of the telephone company, which appeared today had no effect upon the security.

Some bonds were sold early—United States 2 per cents at 101½ and Railway little success. He has now gotten a job with the Administration for his old friend Mr. Sullivan, who has been engaged in mining in Alaska, but who is also disposed to regard the Alaska gold payroll as rather a good gold deposit.

When will the mind of the Senator change? Will he require further sweetening? Will the taxpayers have to bow more deeply to him?

It is hard to tell. At present, he is exceedingly popular. Gentlemen love him. They are willing to do much for him if he will call off his fight, or Purdy. They are lovely to him. Their affection clogs the atmosphere. It is a warm, warm atmosphere, even in cold, cold countries. He is from Norway, where melting is one of the poorest industries.

Will you tell what the Honorable Kintle will do.

BULL BUTTS A MAN
OVER WALL INTO TREE

Farm Hand Received Severe Jolt and Got Wound in Leg.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—Tossed over a high stone wall by an angry bull, George Walker, thirty-nine years old, employed as a farm hand by David McKale, of Frankford, hung in the branches of a tree, where he languished until he was rescued and hurried to the Frankford Hospital. He is being treated for a badly torn leg.

The McKale farm is on the Bristol pike, near Frankford avenue, and one of its hand-picked attractions is a prize bull, which has never been considered a "bad one." Walker was filling a water trough near the wall, which is the dividing line of the bull's domain. On the other side of the wall is a tree, the lowest branches of which are ten feet from the ground.

trough, with his back to the bull, the animal charged, and the impact came before the farmhand could change his position. It was a lusty heave upon the part of the bull, and Walker sailed over the wall and into the tree. There he hung until McKale answered his cries for help.

FOUND—An unset diamond. MARIA'S, 132
West Forty-first st.

Back of this announcement in a morning paper is the story of the losing of an unset diamond and the honesty of an Italian dishwasher, named Giovanni.

Last Saturday afternoon, just after the lunch hour, he rushed out to Prospect Heights, where he had lost an unset diamond in his hand and with much gesticulating, explained that he had found it "nella mannastra," which, being trans-
